1959-60 STUDENT LEADERS CHOSEN IN FIRST PV COUNCIL ELECTION

The general student election of May 6, the first one of its type to have ever been held in the history of Prairie View, marked a milestone in the cultural history of the college. Inclusive of candidates selected by each of the four classes, and candidates to fill the major offices of student government in addition to the capacity as the primary social figure of the college, that of the Queen, this year's election proved to be the most colorful, appealing, participated in, and progressive of any election in the past.

Over twenty candidates for the positions of Miss Prairie View, president of Student Council, vice president of Student Council, secretary of Student Council, and editor of the Prairie View Panther entered the running with hats in the ring. After conscientious and zesty campaigning the students' participation in voting was characterized by equal enthusiasm.

The following is the results of the election in each of the five categories. In the election of Miss Prairie View, the winner and Queen for 1959-60 is Hazel Muse; other candidates included Mae Garcia, Gwendolyn Williams, Eddy Dorsey, Claudette Smith and Pearlie Warren. In the election of president of the Student Council Lloyd D. Mayfield was winner; his opponents included Johnnie Jackson, Elliot Johnson, James Eddings, and Donnie Sampson. George Wooley won the vice presidency against George Brown and Leon Edwards. The new secretary of the Student Council is Donya Stephens, whose opponents were Olivia Gray, Marjorie Nunn, and Florence McNeil. The editorship was won by Edison R. Fowlks, who defeated Jimmy E. Lydia, Merlie Gilmore, and Margie Dean.

The winners of each phase are the people's choice and have dedicated themselves to serve the student body in all sincerity of purpose and with the integrity by which their positions are distinguished.

MAYFIELD ATTENDS TISA CONFERENCE

Lloyd D. Mayfield, newly elected student council president, attended the first annual Student Council Presidents' Conference which was held at Southern Methodist University, Dallas, Texas, on May 16.

The purpose of the conference is to provide a common ground on which newly elected student council presidents can get together for free discussion of problems and situations common to many campuses, and receive the benefit of presentation of problems which have faced preceding councils and what was done to solve such problems, by one or several former presidents of students' associations.

In recognition of superior scholarship, Prairie View presented its annual Honors Day Convocation Program on Sunday, May 10, 1959, in the gymnasium-auditorium at 7 p.m. Honors were bestowed on students who had demonstrated their ability and achievements during the 1958-59 school year.

After Mr. A. E. Norton, principal of Worthing High School, Houston, Texas, gave his Honors Day Address, Dr. J. M. Drew, Dean of Instruction, presented the scholarship awards.

Double Honors were given to Gwendolyn R. Love for being the senior graduating with the highest scholastic average and the Business Administration senior woman with the highest average.

Prince M. Cummings received the Industrial Education award for being the four-year student in Industrial Education with the highest scholastic average. Otis Anderson, also a senior, received the award for making the most outstanding contribution to the college.

The Division of Nursing Education had three outstanding students to receive awards in the Nursing Division. They were: Shirley J. Richardson, freshman having the highest average; Constance Cockrell, senior making greatest achievement during four-year period; and Louise Becton, senior making greatest achievement during four-year period. Shirley Richardson also received the Delta Sigma Theta Award and tied for second place, the East Texas Schoolmen's Association award.

Fuller, dean of men and assistant dean of student life; and Mr. C. H. Nichols, head of the Biology Department. These persons have done much in helping to make the council what it is today.

As you know, Prairie View has one of the most dynamic student councils found on any other college campus. This new council reflects the administration of the out-going members, for they have worked diligently to lay the firm foundation which has the potentials of lasting many years to come.

INDUSTRIAL EDUCATION CONFERENCE ATTRACTS MORE THAN 800 DELEGATES

Over 800 high school students, teachers, principals, counselors, and supervisors met at Prairie View A. and M. College on May 1, 2, 1959, to participate in the 25th annual Industrial Conference.

The theme of the conference was "The Advancing Technology: Its Effect on Industrial Education." The keynote speaker for the conference was Dr. F. D. Patterson, Phelps-Stokes Fund of New York City. Dr. Patterson indicated to the Conference how the advancing technology was shrinking the geography of the world. He stressed the need for qualified technicians and skilled workers to sustain the technology, and encouraged the students to consider industrial occupations as possible future careers. He also pointed out the need for teachers and counselors to have vivid imaginations in teaching and counselling students to live in the world of the future. Particular stress was placed by Dr. Patterson on the need for something more than motivating and inspiring students. He stated we have an obligation to help students enter and progress in the technical occupations for which they were prepared.

One of the highlights of the Industrial Education Conference was the Annual Industrial Education Awards Contest. Over 1,000 projects were entered in the exhibit contest and nearly fifty students were entered in the live contest. Entries were in the areas of Drawing, Auto Mechanics, Carpentry, Cooking and Baking, Cosmetology Dressmaking, Dry Cleaning, Electronics, Electricity, Foundry, Machine Shop, Cabinet Making, Plastics, Sheet Metal, Shoe Repair, Tailoring, Upholstery, and Wrought Iron.

Elementary Teachers Science Workshop Set

A science workshop for elementary teachers is scheduled at the college for June 8-26. The first workshop of this nature was conducted last summer with excellent results.

Among the outstanding consultants will be Dr. Cyrus W. Barnes, professor of Education, New York University; Dr. Robert Thornton, professor of Physics, San Francisco State College; and Dr. C. C. Dork, head of the department of Biology, Texas A. and M. College.

The workshop will be directed by L. L. Byrd, associate professor of Science Education, with other science staff members participating. To assure acceptance in the workshop, participants should write the director, indicating their desire to enroll, by May 25. Participation will be limited to 30 persons. Three hours credit will be given.

Other highlights of the Annual Conference were the Conference picnic and the evening entertainment. Nearly 550 delegates attended the picnic and were served delicious barbecued chicken and beef ribs which were prepared by the Commercial Cooking and Baking Department.

The Prairie View Collegians played for the entertainment in the evening. During the entertainment, a talent show was sponsored by the New Mechanics Club of Texas. First and second place in the talent contest went to E. J. Scott High School, Tyler. FOREIGN STUDENT RECEIVES AWARDS

Samuel Oyeabaji Gbadeyan of Owo, Ilorin Province, Nigeria, West Africa, a student enrolled in the School of Agriculture, with a major in Poultry Husbandry, is the recipient of the Woods-Lewis Poultry Science Award for 1959. (This award is given in recognition of outstanding contribution to Prairie View A. and M. College's Poultry Science department over a period of three or more years.) This recognition carries with it a stipend of $30.00. Gbadeyan was also the winner of the Alpha Phi Alpha Fraternity Scholarship Award ($25.00).

The awards were presented to the recipient during Honor's Day Convocation Program, Sunday evening, May 10, 1959, at 7 o'clock in the Auditorium-Gymnasium of the college.

In a recent interview, Gbadeyan stated: "When I finished high school in my home country (Nigeria), I started to work in the same school. One day a missionary, Mrs. Dick from the state of Oregon, asked of my interest. She then advised me of the scientific farming in America and especially of the opportunity of studying at Prairie View A. and M. College. I saved my money and came to Prairie View early in the morning of September 29, 1956. For the most part I am self sustaining. I am a part-time student laboratory assistant in the poultry department during the long session. During the summer months I work for contractors and at the Poultry Farm on weekends.

THE METHODIST STUDENT MOVEMENT IN REVIEW

The sponsors, officers, and members of the Methodist Student Movement feel that this has been a very successful year for the M. S. M. This is true because of the variety of activities that the Movement has participated in.

The activities began in September with a "get acquainted" social. At that time, the officers of the year were presented: Mr. S. R. Collins, sponsor; Miss C. V. D. Stokes, co-sponsor; Wilton Harris, president; Miss Barbara Wilson, vice president; Miss Merlie Gilmore, secretary; Miss Christene George, assistant secretary; Miss Bernice Carey, treasurer; Miss Dorothy Moore, administrative advisor. This meeting was followed by weekly discussions and business meetings.

On the first Monday in October, as on all other first Mondays, Rev. W. Berlin Randolph, pastor of Lee's Tabernacle, Navasota, Texas, administered communion. Also, Mr. Ben Marshall of the Wesley Foundation of A. and M. College delivered a challenging address.

The major activities that the members of M. S. M. participated in during the month of November were centered around the "Annual Homecomings," which also included a float in the Homecoming Parade. Also, it was during this month that Mr. Wilton Harris, president, and Miss Dorothy Moore attended the State Convention in Austin, Texas. At this meeting Mr. Harris was elected as one of the nine vice presidents of Texas. He is the vice president of the Texas Central Jurisdiction which includes the colleges and universities in this area.

During the month of December, members of the M. S. M., as those of other organizations looked forward to the Annual Christmas party. It was one of the most colorful parties that the movement has ever had.

Because of the many activities that involved the entire student body, such as final examinations, registration, etc., the M. S. M. did not meet in the month of January.

However, during the month of February, in addition to the regular meetings, Miss Glenda McKnight of the Physical Education Department led the group in some square dances. This group considered the main feature of the month.

During the month of March, the members of the M. S. M. directed most of their attention to a "fund raising campaign." Among the activities used for raising funds, were the selling of pies, membership certificates, etc. Also, an electric coffee-maker, electric fan, and a meal in the Faculty Cafeteria were given away in a raffle as prizes. The activities were concluded with a special candle lighting service, and Easter egg hunt in observance of the Easter season.

In addition to the regular activities scheduled for the month of April, Mr. Wilton Harris attended several TMSM Executive Council Meetings. A spring leadership conference was held in Fort Worth, Texas, and a State government seminar in Austin, Texas.

A SALUTE TO THE GRADUATES

By Edison Fowlks

We, the members of Prairie View's student body, in recognition of those persons who have sedulously applied themselves to the extent that they have successfully met the requirements of graduation, pause to make salutations to the members of this 1959 GRADUATING CLASS. They are being saluted, for we feel that it is our duty to give credit to those persons who have realized the value of pursuing a college education.

It is obvious that the time one spends at Prairie View is not wasted, for it is the stepping stone toward higher education, a buttress to the acquisition of future goals, and social, intellectual and moral status.

As students, we sincerely hope that by obtaining such outstanding achievements will not give one the feeling that this is the only goal that he must reach, but feel that it is the basis to higher learning and can be obtained only by the result of hard work and a great deal of determination. So often, the task seems rugged when one is contemplating on seeing that his greatest goal is reached but its ruggedness doesn't last long when the contemplator has in mind the quotation often quoted by the Dean of the Chapel. This quotation goes as follows: "I may not reach that place I seek; my untried strength may fail me; but half way up the mountain peak . . . fierce tempests may assail me . . . and though that place I never gain wherein life's pleasures I may plan . . . I'll die fighting towards it." With this in mind, a person is sure to succeed.

The doors are opened to those persons who have developed their potentialities to the fullest extent. It is therefore pertinent that each graduate take advantage of this opportunity, and work diligently in order to achieve his position among the intellects of the world.

FAREWELL TO ALL

By Jimmy E. Lydia

There is a great elation present in the hearts of each of the several members of the PANTHER staff, when we pause near the close of the 1958-59 school year to express our illimitable appreciation for the cooperative spirit exhibited by the student body this school season and our sincerest wishes of a happy vacation during the summer. As the sun begins to set on the year's activities, we hope that it is symbolic of a year's end the summation of which is representative of a year finding each of us a step further in our quest for excellence and is prophetic of another of even greater support to the cultural budding taking place within us.

That this season's PANTHER has been one of greater success than many previous seasons is a tribute to you, for, notwithstanding the conscientious work of the staff, you have exemplified a spirit unknown to the students of the nearer past. The staff has been fortunate to have enjoyed such patronage and looks forward to the forthcoming year in which each student here who does not graduate will help to comprise its patronage again.

It is hoped that the fruits of this scholastic harvest season, when observed as a whole, will represent a significant addition to the intellectual, moral, and spiritual canneries already effected in the past through bygone scholastic endeavors. To this stockpile must the purity and savour of more fruit from the "tree of knowledge" be added. It is a process which takes simultaneously with the evolving of the cycle of time, and, as time makes obsolete that which is old, the process of learning eliminates that which is inconsistent with new truth.

Each of us is involved in this process for securing such truth as will efface the old and usher in the new. We have signed an unwritten contract with ourselves regarding the acquisition of useful knowledges, skills, abilities, attitudes, and appreciations, and to fail ourselves is breach of contract on the worst level, as it devaluates the usefulness of the self. The PANTHER staff feels obligated to encourage each student to continue to excel as his potential allows him and by "plucking from the tree of knowledge" to fulfill his self-made and self-signed contract during the coming school year.

Due to the fact that graduation is held this month, the following question was asked to a group of graduating seniors.

Question: Have you accomplished the thing(s) that you hoped to accomplish while attending Prairie View? What?

"Yes, during my four years of study at Prairie View, I have accomplished most of all a better understanding of humanity which will prove helpful during my years of work."

Iva J. Davis,
Clothing and Textile Major

"Yes, during my four years at Prairie View, I have accomplished a better understanding of the individual differences in people."

DRIFTING

By Sulsa Windom

Through valleys and dales I walked along,

Where the morning dew was lifting.
Over mountaintops and hills I climbed;
Just drifting, drifting, drifting.

Through rifts and crevices I slowly crept,
Where desert sands were sifting.
Across plains and prairies I traveled on;
Just drifting, drifting, drifting.

Through meadows, green and beautiful, I passed,
Where sunny brooks were rippling.
For days, nights, and weeks I wandered;
Just drifting, drifting, drifting.

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

To the Editor-in-Chief:

Your recent editorial on departmental tests and the responses to the question on the same topic were read with a great deal of interest and pleasure. You are to be roundly congratulated for putting this feature before the Prairie View student body. It is hoped that the spark which fired your publication of this feature is still glowing, for the light given off by such features is always appropriate in any community which passes as an exact replica of a democratic nation.

However, I was not so intrigued that I failed to note some of the faulty assumptions in both the editorial and the responses. I would like, though, to comment on a couple of the suppositions in the editorial. (I am aware that you put the editorial up as a summary of the responses in CAMPUS QUOTES; but since it clearly reflects your personal attitude toward the subject, I shall proceed as though the responses never appeared.)

Your editorial is built on the supposition that departmental examinations are tossed off at the last minute and without any regard to the predetermined aims and objectives of a given course. In some cases, this may very well be the case. And examinations so tossed off are justly denounced and repudiated. But all examinations are not thrown together in this manner, and one cannot justly assume that they are.

The person or persons who make up a departmental examination assume, or could assume, that the aims and objectives of the course, with provisions for evaluations, were set up in advance; that instructors of the course had worked toward the aims and objectives; and that the students in the course had been exposed to and were capable of absorbing the same general body of information. Now whether each condition of the assumption prevailed is altogether another question—a question, in reality, with which your editorial purported to deal. This question is a complex one, and it is worthy of further investigation and discussion. But I shall not attempt either.

I shall say, however, that if each condition of the assumption did prevail, a student should be able to pass a departmental examination—and regardless to whether the examination is constructed by one, three, or all of the instructors of a course, or by someone from Mars. And I might add that an examination constructed by one or two persons (and this is the type you favor least) stands a better chance of being a fair examination than an examination made up by all the instructors who may teach the course. Space will not permit me to discuss the reasons. Suffice it to say that such an examination is apt to be more reasonable and unified.

Let me now deal with another aspect of the same issue. You seem to feel that students cannot be expected to do well on an examination that is written in unfamiliar phraseology. I will admit that this fact can account for some poor performances on examinations, but it should not be allowed to go on record as one of the main reasons why certain students may perform poorly. If students truly know what they are about, they will be able to deal with a question regardless to how it is phrased—that is, so long as the idea is familiar and the question is phrased in communicative English. If students can only pass examinations whose phraseology is familiar, I should be terrified to think of what will happen to them when they at last come face-to-face with the National Teachers' Examination, bar examinations, and many other competitive examinations—examinations which most assuredly will not be made by their instructor, and not even by persons orientated to their social and cultural background, nor by persons who are aware of their limitations.

Let me observe here that an instructor should not think it unreasonable to ask students to respond to questions which had never been up for DIRECT discussion in the classroom. Only by evaluating such impromptu responses can an instructor gauge students' abilities to think logically and to arrive at fairly sound and independent conclusions—a process that should be partially mastered by all who expect to live and function in a democratic society.

Before I close, let me assure you that this letter is not to be construed as an endorsement of standardized examinations; nor should my calling attention to this fact be taken as an admission of my opposing them. This letter simply aims to expose some of the fallacies of your editorial. As I have already said, this is a big question. Nevertheless, you dealt with it valiantly. Again let me commend you for tackling it. Bravo and congratulations!

FACULTY PROFILE

By Mattie Else

This month the Panther honors Dr. H. Edison Anderson, who was born in Terrell, Texas, where he attended elementary and high school. For his advanced training he chose Prairie View State College, University of Iowa, and Columbia University.

Dr. Anderson has done numerous radio, television, and recital performances. He has served in the following capacities in the field of music and music education: He was principal, Band Central Junior High School, 1938-40, Director of music at Arkansas State College, 1941-42, and under the direction of Dr. Harry R. Wilson, he sang as soloist with the Columbia University Choir. He was also selected to sing with the famous Collegiate Choral under the direction of Robert Shaw of Juilliard. While studying in New York he also sang in two performances of Brahms' Alto Rhapsody with the noted singer, Carol Brice, under the direction of Serge Koussevitsky.

In the summer of 1954-55, he studied in the Opera workshop at the State University of Iowa under the direction of Dr. H. I. Stark, and he sang the part of Don Curzio in the opera "Figaro," for four consecutive nights in the Fine Arts Festival with seasoned singers of operatic experience.

Dr. Anderson is the founder of the present site of the music department of Langston University, he was director of the well known A Cappella Singers and head of the department of music for several years. The many times that he was chosen conductor of the All-State Chorus Festival of Oklahoma attests to the fact that he is very enthusiastic about working with young people and groups of all sizes as well as with those who have been inspired toward a professional goal.

Dr. Anderson was invited to become professor of music at his Alma Mater, P. V. Agricultural and Mechanical College. He is also the Director of Voice and the A Cappella Concert Choir. Dr. Anderson takes personal pride and interest in counseling with music students, many of whom are in responsible positions in the state of Texas and in the Southwest, and some who have already gained prominence in the music world of today.

"HATS OFF TO DR. ANDERSON, LYRIC TENOR AND CONDUCTOR," who has just returned from the West Coast with the well-known Prairie View A Cappella Choir whose performances we predict will be on the lips of everyone in the nation if they keep performing as they did the past year!

The elderly visitor was quizzing the preacher's small son. "Does your father ever preach the same sermon twice?" he asked.

"Oh, sure he does," the boy answered, "but he hollers in different places."

YEARBOOK TO BE READY IN AUGUST

The yearbook staff continues to work diligently in order to complete the drawing up of the 1958-59 yearbook. As you know, this task involves a great deal of time and effort, and the staff has given it just that.

According to Napoleon Milton, the chairman of the yearbook staff, the annual will go to press on May 31, and should be released on August 1, or a few days thereafter. It will definitely be ready before the summer commencement exercises.

Those persons wishing to have their books mailed to them may do so by leaving at the publication office, a 25c fee which will cover the postage and handling charges, or it may be mailed together with the balance of your yearbook fee to the Panther Yearbook in care of the college.

Applications for yearbooks will be taken until May 31, and those persons interested in making deposits may do so immediately. If you do not make a deposit on a yearbook, it will be impossible to purchase one because no extra copies are being printed. But if you are desirous of buying an annual after they have been printed, you may do so provided that you can get a total of 100 persons to take an order. And after you have gotten this number, the price of it will be $10.00.

We all can now wait in suspense for the 1958-59 yearbook which will serve as a written record of the past and present events that happened during this most successful school year.

Boss: "You want more money? Why, my boy, I worked three years for $11 a month right here in this establishment. Now I own it!"

Boy: "Well, you see what happened to your boss. No man who treats his help that way can hold on to his job."

STUDENT FOCUS

The student focus for the month is Hazel Muse, who was recently elected by popular vote of the Prairie View students, MISS PRAIRIE VIEW 1959-60.

The 21 year old queen is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. L. Muse of Tyler, Texas. Hazel attended the T. J. Austin elementary school and graduated from the Emmett Scott Junior-Senior High School. While in junior high school she was chosen Miss Emmett Scott Junior High, and after reaching senior high school, she served as NFA queen. Hazel, as a member of the National Honor Society and the Tri-Hi-Y graduated in 1956 as salutatorian of her class.

The class of 1960 of which Hazel is a member, started placing her in queen position. During her sophomore year, she served the 1957-58 Miss Prairie View as sophomore attendant and also in the 1958-59 school year served the queen as junior attendant. She has served as the sweetheart for Club Crescendo since 1956.

In 1958 Hazel was presented in

ADDED STUDENT FOCUS—Above are pictures of students who were considered for student focus, but because of the number it was impossible to accept them all. Because of their outstanding contributions to the college we pay tribute to them. They are: George Brown, an Agriculture major from Prairie View, Texas; Earlene Whittenberg, a Library Science major; and Vera Brooks, an English major, both being from Fort Worth, Texas. Also Otto Anderson, an Engineering major from Toombula, Miss.; Shirley Peacock, a Home Economics major from Jasper, Texas; and Willie Roland, a Music major from Pampa, Texas.

the first group of young ladies at Prairie View to become AKA debutantes. The ladies were chosen on scholarship, personality, and other factors that are required of debutantes.

Hazel, who has made the honor roll several times since her enrollment at Prairie View has membership in several organizations on the campus. Some of them are: The BA & BE, Incorporated, Club 26, Les Belles Lettres Cultural Club, and the Tyler-Prairie View Club.

While majoring in Business Education and minoring in Spanish, she enjoys playing the piano, dancing and reading good literature. Hazel enjoys watching the Panthers while they are participating in the various sports.

CLUB OF THE MONTH—BARONS ON INNOVATION

BA-BE, INC., HAS EVENTFUL YEAR

According to the president, Mr. Wilton Harris, this has been BA-BE, Inc.'s most successful year. On September 20, Dr. T. P. Dooley, Dean of the School of Arts and Sciences, installed the following officers:

Mr. Wilton Harris, president; Mr. John L. Johnson, vice president; Miss Merlie Gilmore, recording secretary; Miss Pearl Warren, corresponding secretary; Miss Ida Harris, treasurer; Miss Mary Smith, reporter; Mr. William Dickerson, sergeant-at-arms; Miss Vivian Pruitt, parliamentarian; Mr. Adam Randle, business manager; Mr. Alton Bozeman, administrative advisor; Mrs. Marlene D. Muckelroy, sponsor; Dr. Wm. C. Ferguson, co-sponsor.

During the early part of October, stock was sold to more than 200 students in the Business Department. Also, during the month of October, the president appointed nine standing committees. Among the committees appointed were these: program, social, special aid, scholarship, publicity, public relations, special award, and the expansion and research committees.

On November 3, Dr. J. L. Brown, Department Head of Economics, delivered a challenging address: "Utilizing Education in Preparing for Tomorrow's Business World."

Also, during the month of November, the Special Aid Committee held its first clinic, to aid those students having difficulties with business courses.

Finally, during the month of November, the Special Activity Committee did a splendid job in having BA-BE represented in the Homecoming parade.

On December 13, the Corporation held its Annual Christmas Party which climaxed the activities for the first semester.

The Corporation did not meet during the month of January since many activities are going on that involve the entire student body.

However, during the month of February, the Corporation began its activities with a second semester stock sale. Again, over 200 persons bought stock in the Corporation.

In early March the BA-BE board of directors called a special meeting to make plans for the second semester. As a result of this meeting, the board of directors were able to draw up a calendar of events for the corporation. Among the many activities placed on the Calendar of Events were these:

March 6: Board of Directors meeting.
March 11: Regular stockholders' meeting; $25.00 scholarship planned.
March 13: BA-BE Spring Formal.
April 15-20: Business Emphasis Week.

April 15: Dr. E. B. Evans signed the proclamation drawn up by the board of directors declaring the first week of April of each year as Business Emphasis Week.

April 16: Tour of business establishments, Austin, Texas.
April 17: BA-BE Proper Dress Day.
April 18: BA-BE takes charge of Sunday School.

April 20: BA-BE participates in the Annual Business Clinic.
April 30: BA-BE takes pictures for Annual and nominates officers for the 1958-59 school term.

April 30: It was also on this night when the officers and stockholders were shocked when Mr. Wilton Harris refused to run for president.

In brief, Mr. Harris said that he felt that he should vacate the office since he had held it for three years.

May 10: The stockholders elected the officers for the 1959-60 school term.

Mr. Harris said that the sponsors, officers, and stockholders are grateful to everyone who has helped BA-BE, Inc., to live up to its motto this year which is: "We do that today what most organizations plan for tomorrow."

CLUB OF THE MONTH

This edition of the "Panther" salutes the Barons of Innovation, as "Club of the month."

Growing out of a desire not only to participate in a full college life, but to make a contribution both to themselves as individuals and Prairie View in general, Club Barons had its start in 1951. In the fall of 1952 the organization burst into full bloom for the purpose of adding dignity and new ways of doing things in the social life of college men on the campus.

In the spring of that year the membership in their organization grew to 26. Under the leadership of Alvin (Fox) Roberts and the assistance of his seven cabinet members, the initial efforts of the group were focused on courtesy, cleanliness, and scholarship.

Old timers will long remember the stirring innovations instituted by the Barons in the wearing of sweaters. Those of us who proudly wear our "coat of arms" for all to see, in this day have little or no awareness of the trouble created when the first white sweaters with green emblems were unwrapped from their boxes and pulled onto the shoulders of the valiant men who dared to add supplementary colors to the tried and true purple and gold.

During the years of the organization's existence, a series of social activities have been augmented contributing to campus life. Students in general have contributed which helped the Barons to cement themselves more firmly around their original purpose. During the past three years the brotherhood has taken pride in the fact that it has been able to fit into its general design, a spiritual element which was not a part of the organization's basic plan.

The BOI's annual vesper, "The Spoken Word of Embellishment," has given the club a new avenue of expression. This organization now feels that the sacred note in their Sunday evening vesper represents an innovation in recent years.

The BOI's, as they are sometimes called, still have many new things to unfold to the Prairie View community. Meanwhile, the Barons find security in the words of their motto: "Toujours En Avant!"

The officers of the organization are: David Moore, president; Leonard Gee, vice president; Franklin Donohoe, secretary; Thomas Brewer, assistant secretary; treasurer, James Sauls; business manager, Carl Young; parliamentarian, John McNeil; and Percy Daniels, chaplain.

TRACK TEAM SECOND IN SWC MEET PV GOLFERS WIN SWC CHAMPIONSHIP

The Prairie View Panther track team made a good showing at the Southwestern Conference meet but lacked the depth to stave off a powerful Southern University team that went on to win the meet. Southern University scored 69 points while her nearest rival, Prairie View, amassed 53.5 points.

Albert Nunn and David Fant, the perennial distance champions, placed one-two in the mile and in the two-mile runs. Nunn set a new conference run in the mile with a 4:26.2. Fant also set a new record when he posted a 9:35.9 in the two-mile run. The only other new record established by Prairie View was Herbert Lee's 12'9" pole vault leap. Nunn and Fant are both seniors. Elmer Wooley who tied for 2nd in high jump is a senior also.

The Panthers took three other first places in the meet to bring their total to six first places of the sixteen events. Lester Porter won the discus throw with a heave that measured 148 feet. James Kennedy won the other two first places, winning the broadjump and the low hurdles. Kennedy also ran a 220 leg on the medley relay to run his total points to 10 1/4 and enough to win the individual high-point trophy.

The capacity crowd that filled the Southern University stadium for this meet saw nine new records and their holders are as follows:

440, Robinson, 47.4, Southern
880, Wilkerson, 1:55.4, Southern High hurdles, Davis, 14.5, Southern Sprint medley, 3:29.2, Southern
